

Turkey Vulture

Other than the bald eagles which we very occasionally see from our properties, the turkey vultures are definitely our sky's largest citizens.

While their faces are...humble, these birds are so impressive to see, especially because of their white-fringed and "fingered" wings and the way they sail so gracefully across the blue.

While we very occasionally also see black vultures in nearby fields, it's the turkey vultures which are most common here.

